Subject: International Jazz Day 2015

Sir/Madam,

I am pleased to inform you that the fourth edition of International Jazz Day will be hosted by Paris (France) on 30 April 2015. As you know, on 30 April each year, this International Day brings together nations and communities to celebrate the art of jazz, and to highlight its important role in encouraging dialogue among cultures and civilizations, eradicating discrimination and promoting human dignity.

The first edition of the Day took place in April 2012. It was a worldwide success, with countries on every continent presenting different activities. More than 1,400 people attended the official launch at UNESCO's Headquarters in Paris, and 20,000 more watched it via webcast. Moreover, at a sunrise concert in New Orleans, UNESCO Goodwill Ambassador Herbie Hancock took to the stage with young musicians from all over the world joining in by satellite, and at the United Nations Headquarters in New York, a sunset concert saw celebrities such as Robert De Niro, Michael Douglas and Morgan Freeman introducing legends of the jazz scene, among them Dee Dee Bridgewater, Chaka Khan and Hugh Masekela. Media interest was intense, with more than 2,000 newspaper articles on International Jazz Day being published around the world.

In the two years since, the Day has been celebrated with successively greater participation worldwide. All 196 Member States of UNESCO and the United Nations joined in the celebrations, and more than one billion people were reached through live performances, education programmes and media coverage. In 2014, observances took place on all seven continents and aboard the International Space Station. The All-Star Concert and Daytime Educational Programme, organized each year in the hosting city, have become much-anticipated parts of the celebration, with artists including Dianne Reeves, Joss Stone, Esperanza Spalding, Al Jarreau, Wayne Shorter, Marcus Miller, Oumou Sangaré and many others joining with us to make them successful.

You may wish to consult the UNESCO website at www.unesco.org/new/en/jazz-day for complete information on the events that took place in the context of the 2012, 2013 and 2014 editions of the Day.

To build on the achievements of the past and broaden the geographical scope, diversity and impact of the 2015 edition of International Jazz Day, I wish to mobilize more deeply all UNESCO Member States, in collaboration with their partners and networks. I invite you, therefore, to contribute to the success of the 2015 celebration by encouraging stakeholders and partners in your country to organize events in line with their specific interests and resources. Your contribution to raising awareness in your local associated schools and universities on this Day, as well as to developing programmes involving public and private partners, also would be appreciated.

As in the past three years, UNESCO's official partner in the organization of International Jazz Day is the Thelonious Monk Institute of Jazz. The Institute is leading both the programme and outreach efforts on behalf of UNESCO. I should be most grateful if information on any events planned for the celebration of International Jazz Day 2015 in your country could be sent to the following e-mail address: outreach@jazzday.com. Your input would be included in the official programme of events available on the UNESCO International Jazz Day dedicated website.

In the hope that your Government will lend its support to this fourth edition of International Jazz Day, and looking forward to its contribution, I ask that you please accept, Sir/Madam, the assurances of my highest consideration.
